INTRODUCTION

In January of 2011, Governor Terry Branstad released a set of goals aimed at improving the socio-economic environment of Iowans. These goals include: creating 200,000 new jobs, increasing family incomes by 25 percent, providing Iowa's youth with the best education in the nation and reducing State government costs by 15 percent. This is the third annual report to delineate some of the opportunities and challenges Iowa faces in several areas as they relate to the attainment of these goals. The State of Iowa was analyzed as a whole and regional reports based on economic development regional marketing group territories and Laborshed areas were independently analyzed. This is the regional report for Boone, Dallas, Jasper, Madison, Marshall, Polk, Poweshiek, Story and Warren counties.

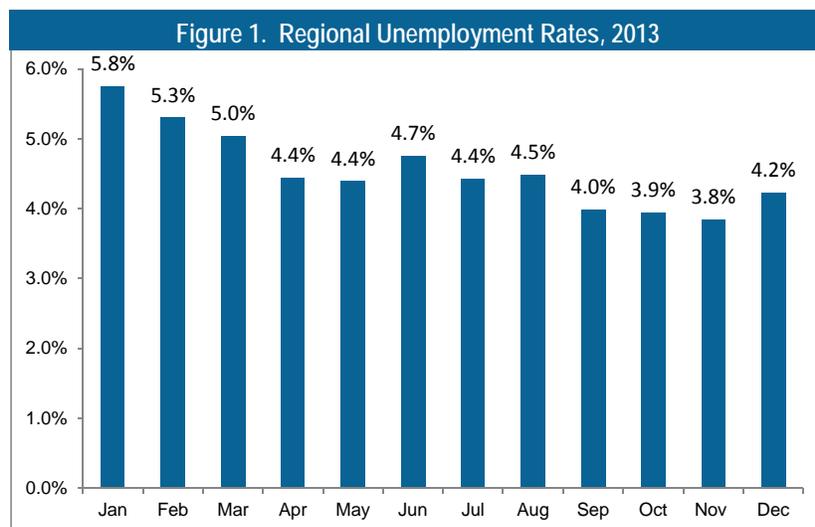

This region is home to over 804,000 people and employs over 421,000 non-farm jobs as of 2013. The largest city, with over 207,000 people, is Des Moines. Other major cities include Ames, West Des Moines, Ankeny, Urbandale, Marshalltown, Johnston, Waukee, Clive, Altoona, Newton, Indianola, Boone, Norwalk, Grimes, Pleasant Hill, Grinnell, Perry, Nevada and Winterset.

Wholesale and retail trade; finance and insurance; and health services are the region's top industries. This is somewhat similar to the State as a whole, as the top three industry sectors by employment for Iowa are wholesale and retail trade; manufacturing; and health services.

Throughout this report, the region will be benchmarked against the State of Iowa as well as the United States. Benchmarking facilitates an analysis of the competitive strengths and weaknesses of the region.

Although the majority of the data in this report represents the year ending December 2013, there are some data sources that are updated less frequently than others, in all cases the most current data available by time of publishing was used.

- The region's unadjusted unemployment rate dropped from 5.8 percent in January 2013 to 3.8 percent in November. However, it rose to 4.2 percent in December 2013 (Figure 1). Within the region, Marshall County represents the highest percentage of unemployed (5.9%) while Story County represents the lowest (3.5%).
- According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Quarterly Census of Employment and Wages (QCEW), the total regional non-farm employment in January 2013 was 406,337 and in December 2013 it was 426,838, an increase of 20,501 jobs.
- According to the Iowa Unemployment Insurance Tax Database, there were 46,086 active business locations in the region as of May 2014.

DEMOGRAPHIC PROFILE

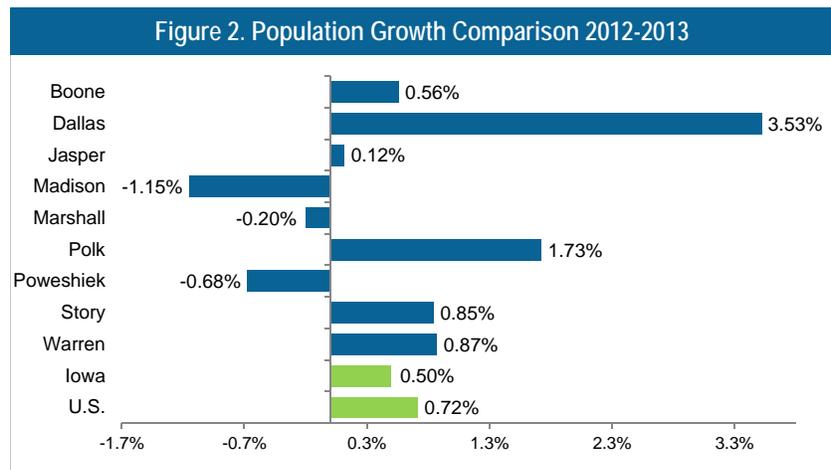

DEMOGRAPHIC PROFILE SUMMARY

- The region experienced a population increase of 1.4 percent between 2012 and 2013, while the State as a whole experienced 0.5 percent population growth. Dallas County had the highest percentage growth rate in the region at 3.5 percent.
- The region gained 12,068 residents on a net-migration basis in 2012, with Story County having the greatest positive net-migration in the region (5,500).
- There is much disparity between county age distributions within the region, with Jasper County having the highest median age (41.7) and Story County having the lowest (26.5).
- Marshall County had the greatest percentage of Hispanic population in the region (17.2%).
- The counties in the region have varying average commute times, with Marshall County having the shortest (16.8 minutes) and Madison County having the longest (27.0 minutes). The statewide average is 18.7 minutes.

Before addressing the factors that relate to the strategic goals, the overall make-up of both the regional population and its infrastructure will be examined. The following section addresses demographic trends in the region over the past two decades. Specifically, it assesses the current population, population trends, diversity and age distribution.

POPULATION GROWTH

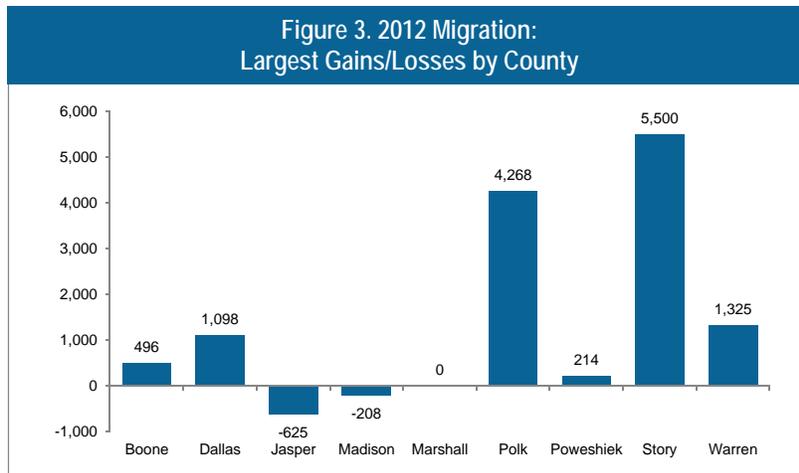

The region grew by 1.4 percent (an estimated 11,196 people) from 2012 to 2013. Dallas County had the highest percentage growth compared to the other counties, at 3.5 percent (2,543 people) which was a much higher percentage growth than the State (0.50%). This was followed by Polk County at 1.7 percent growth (7,668 people), Warren County at 0.87 percent (410 people) and Story County at 0.85 percent (776 people) (Figure 2). Madison County had the greatest decline in population, within the region, between 2012 and 2013 at -1.15 percent (180 people).

MIGRATION

The region has gained 12,068 residents on a net basis as a result of migration. Figure 3, on the next page, illustrates the region's net migration. The U.S. Census Bureau's American Community Survey reveals net migration totals as a result of in-flows and out-flows, offering a clear picture of which counties in Iowa are gaining new residents. Story County acquired the most new residents (5,500). Jasper County lost 625 residents on a net migration basis.

AGE

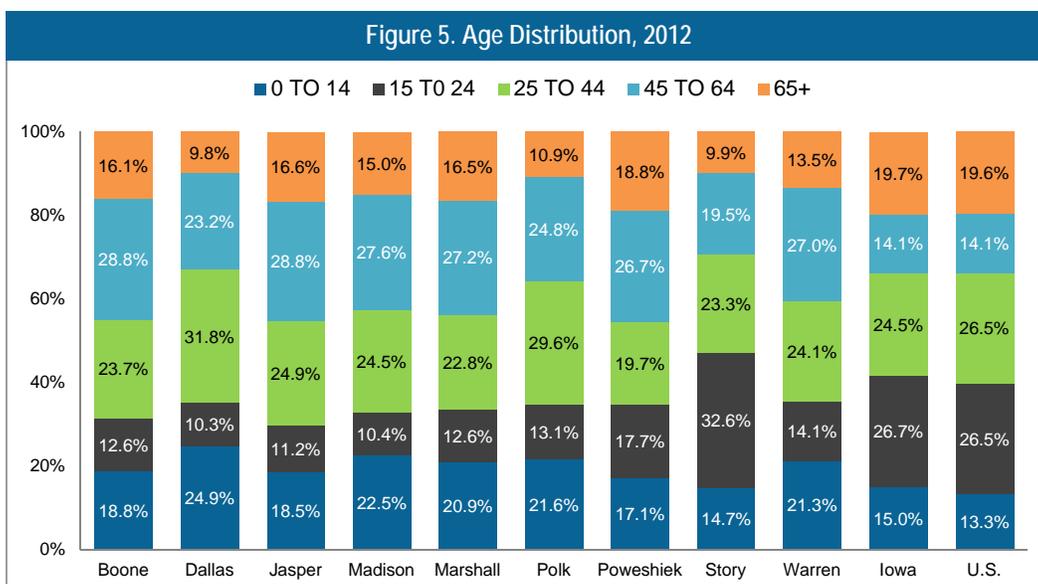

There is a substantial variance in median age within the region, with Story County being the youngest county in the region with a median age of 26.5 years, while Jasper County is the oldest with a median age of 41.7 years (Figure 4).

Figure 5 illustrates the age distribution for each of the counties in the region, the State and the nation. Poweshiek County is the oldest county in the region with 45.5 percent of its population being 45 or older. Comparatively, only 29.4 percent of Story County's population is 45 or older. Each county in the region, except Story and Dallas counties, have a larger percentage of their population that is 45 years or older than either the State (33.8%) or the nation (33.7%) as a whole.

DIVERSITY

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, “Hispanic” or “Latino” is an indication of heritage, nationality, lineage or reference to country of birth rather than a particular race. People who identify their origin as Spanish, Hispanic or Latino may be of any race.

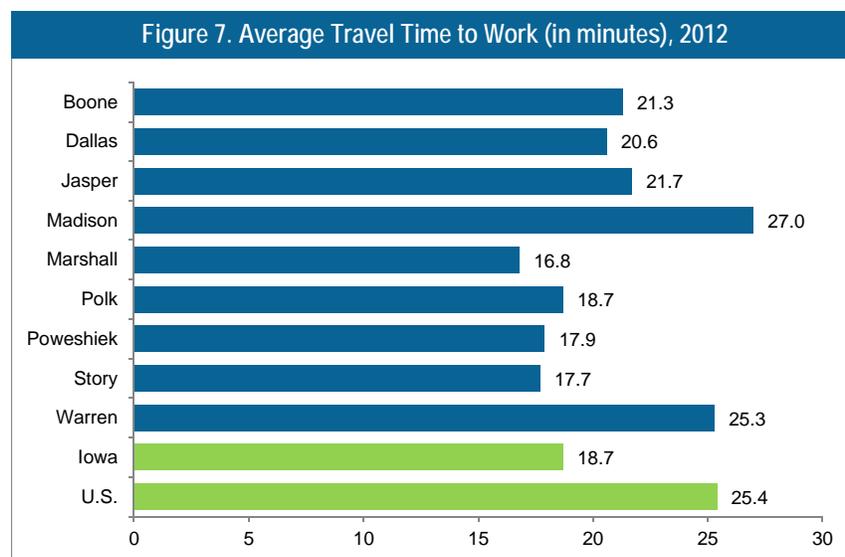

The Hispanic population in Iowa has grown to 5.1 percent as of 2012 (Figure 6). The growth in the State’s Hispanic population mirrors national growth trends. In Marshall County 17.2 percent of the population identified themselves as Hispanic. This was a 0.7 percent increase over 2011.

COMMUTE TIMES

Five of the nine counties in this region have a longer average commute time than the State as a whole, with Madison County having the longest at 27.0 (Figure 7). Marshall County had the shortest average commute time in the region at 16.8 minutes.

200,000 NEW JOBS SUMMARY

- In 2013, Iowa had an unemployment rate of 4.7 percent, significantly less than the U.S. unemployment rate of 7.4 percent. Among counties in this region, Story County had the lowest unemployment rate in 2013 with 3.5 percent, while the rest of the counties ranged between 3.7 and 5.9 percent.
- The region's economy is heavily dominated by wholesale and retail trade; finance and service; and health care and social assistance, that combined employ 45.3 percent of the region's workers.
- The labor force grew by 2.2 percent in the region between 2008 and 2013, compared to a -0.3 percent negative growth statewide.
- Health care and social assistance employment increased by 6,370 between 2008 and 2013, the largest industry increase in the region.
- The sectors that lost the largest number of net jobs in the region between 2008 and 2013 were transportation and warehousing (9,786); information (3,219); construction (1,227); public administration (1,209); and arts and entertainment (1,171).

200,000 NEW JOBS

One of the top goals of the current administration is to create 200,000 new jobs in the private industry, for Iowans over the next five years. This section of the report covers areas that relate to this goal; pointing out areas of opportunity and highlighting certain challenges that face Iowa and specifically this region.

ECONOMIC SCAN

Figure 8 briefly summarizes key data points that are discussed in further detail throughout this report. Polk County is the most populated county in this region. Between 2012 and 2013 population growth was 0.5 percent in Iowa, below the population growth nationwide and also less than the population growth of the region (1.4%). Between 2008 and 2013, the labor force in Iowa shrunk by only 0.33 percent. While Poweshiek County experienced negative labor force growth of 3.5 percent, Dallas County had by far the highest growth in the region at 16.3 percent.

The unemployment rate in Iowa was 4.7 percent for 2013 which was lower than the nation as a whole. Within the region, Story County had the lowest unemployment rate (3.5%) while Marshall County had the highest (5.9%) followed closely by Jasper County (5.6%). Median household income growth since 2002 (24.2%) pushed the median household income in Iowa to $50,997 as of 2012. The median household income is relatively high in the majority of the counties in this region. Six of the nine counties in the region exceed both the Iowa and U.S. median household income. Alternately, Iowa's 2012 per capita personal income is $43,935. Only four of the counties in the region have a higher per capita personal income than Iowa as a whole, with Dallas County having the highest in the region at $49,215.

EMPLOYMENT AND UNEMPLOYMENT

Iowa's unemployment rate consistently ranks below the national unemployment rate and this trend is illustrated in Figure 9, on the next page. Even with the slightly higher unemployment rate in the middle of 2013, in general, Iowa's rate remained steady throughout 2013, starting at 5.0 percent in January, and dropping to 4.2 percent in December. Unemployment rates for the counties in this region are shown, as well, although the county rates shown are not seasonally adjusted and the Iowa and U.S. rates are.

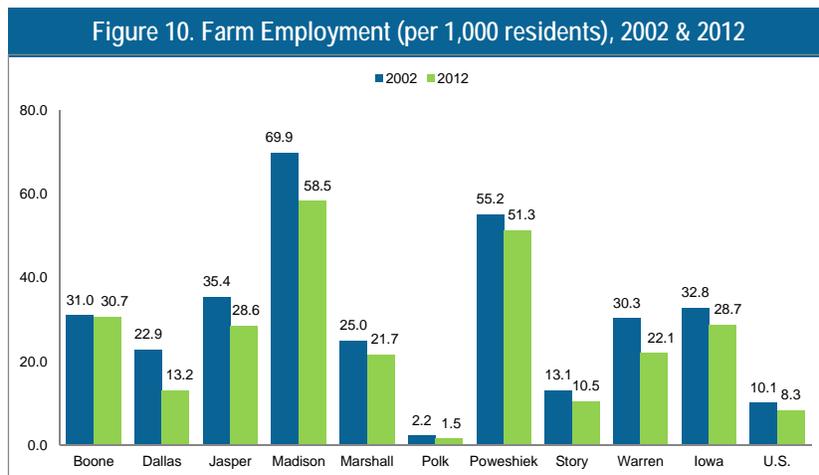

The counties in the region show similar patterns throughout 2013 (Figure 9). Story County had the lowest unemployment rate in the region for most of 2013, with rates ranging between 2.7 and 4.3 percent. Marshall County had the highest unemployment rates in the region for much of 2013; ranging from 4.6 percent to 8.1 percent.

Note: Iowa and U.S. rates are seasonally adjusted, while the county rates are not.

Self-employed farm employment is not reflected by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS), which only includes larger farm employment statistics. Figure 10 reflects farm employment per 1,000 residents. It is clear that agriculture is very strong in Iowa, with over three times the number of farm employees per capita than the U.S. However, Iowa has experienced a decrease in farm employment from 32.8 in 2002 to 28.7 in 2012. All of the counties represented in this region also have shown a decrease in farm employment since 2002. In general, the counties in this region have a low to moderate farm employment per 1,000 residents, with Madison County having the highest at 58.5 in 2012 a decrease of 11.4 since 2002.

Source: Bureau of Economic Analysis

Figure 11 illustrates the farm employment change for each county as compared to Iowa and the U.S. Proportionally, the region has seen a larger decline (-12.2%) in farm employment over the last decade than either the State or the nation as a whole.

Source: Bureau of Economic Analysis

In addition to strong farm employment, this region's economy is dominated by three sectors. The majority of the employment in the region is in the wholesale and retail trade; finance and insurance; and health care and social assistance sectors (see Figure 12 below). The green highlighted areas within Figure 12 indicate the highest number and share of employment for each county, the State and the nation.

According to Hoovers On-line, the top employers in the region include: Iowa Health System, Catholic Health Initiatives, Corp., Central Iowa Hospital Corp., Amco Insurance Company, Employers Mutual Casualty Company, Fisher Controls International, LLC, Iowa Department of Transportation, Wellmark, Inc., Deere & Company, Mary Greeley Medical Center Foundation, United Steelworkers of America-International Union, Inc. and Allied Group, Inc., Wells Fargo Home Mortgage, Inc., Principal Financial Group and Iowa State University.

Figure 13 below displays the results from an analysis conducted to determine the strength of regional industry clusters relative to the national economy over time. A growing cluster concentration in a region may indicate that a cluster is capturing a larger share of new jobs, suggesting an improvement in the region's attractiveness and competitiveness for that industry cluster.

The vertical axis represents the industry's local strength. This is indicated by a location quotient (LQ). An LQ measures the relative employment concentration or specialization, of an industry cluster in a region in relation to the industry cluster at the national level. Specifically, an LQ is calculated by dividing a cluster's share of total regional employment by the cluster's share of total national employment. If an industry cluster's LQ is near or at 1.0 it means the cluster's employment concentration is similar to the national economy.

The horizontal axis represents the industry cluster's employment growth in the region between 2008 and 2013. A position on the left half of the chart indicates negative employment growth, while a position on the right side indicates positive employment growth.

The size of the bubbles represents the employment level of the industry cluster in the region, therefore, the larger the bubble, the more people work in the industry.

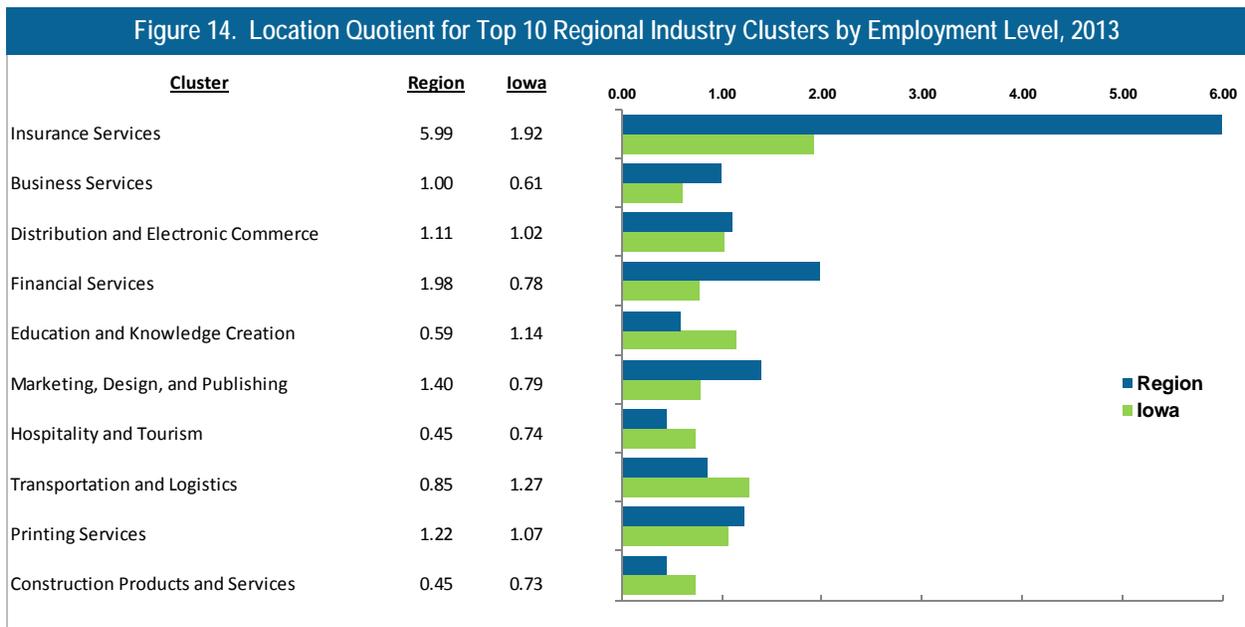

Clusters are based on Porter Cluster traded industry categories (see Appendix for cluster breakdown by industry).

Source: Bureau of Labor Statistics, OCEW: 2013 preliminary data

Figure 13 on the previous page shows the region's largest industry cluster by employment is insurance services. The LQ for this industry cluster is 5.99, indicating that there is a very high concentration of insurance services employment in the region compared to the nation as a whole. The second largest industry cluster by employment in the region is business services, and it has an LQ of 1.00. Therefore, there is a similar concentration of employment in the business services cluster in the region relative to the national proportion. However, the industry cluster experienced positive employment growth between 2008 and 2013.

Figure 14 below lists the 10 largest industry clusters by employment in the region in 2013, along with their location quotients. Among the top 10 industry clusters, insurance services had the largest location quotient in the region. The industry clusters in the region with the largest location quotients after insurance services are financial services (1.98); marketing, design and publishing (1.40); printing services (1.22) and distribution and electronic commerce (1.11).

Clusters are based on Porter Cluster traded industry categories (see Appendix for cluster breakdown by industry).

JOB AND BUSINESS CREATION

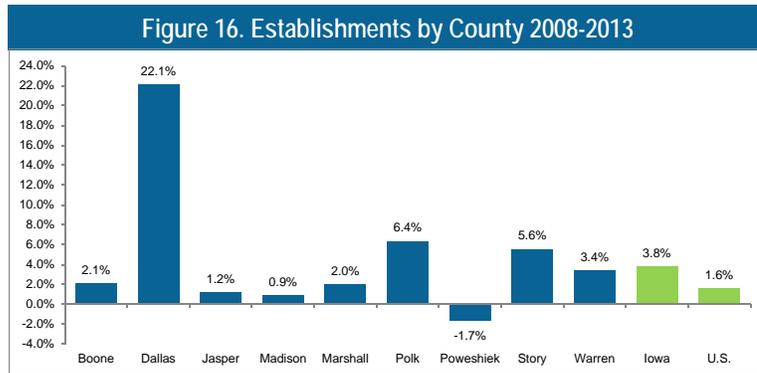

Between 2008 and 2013, Iowa experienced a net job gain of an estimated 5,838 jobs, an increase of 0.4 percent. Five of the counties in this region also experienced growth during this time period (Figure 15). Dallas County by far exceeded all the areas in percentage growth from 2008 to 2013 at 20.9 percent or an estimated increase of 6,404 employees.

The Quarterly Census of Employment and Wages through the Bureau of Labor Statistics measures the number of establishments based on businesses that pay unemployment insurance. Figure 16 shows the change by percentage for Iowa, the U.S. and each county in the region from 2008 to 2013. The majority of counties in the region experienced growth in number of establishments during this time period. Dallas County experienced the largest increase in establishments at 22.1 percent.

The largest employment gain in the region between 2008 and 2013 was in the health care and social assistance sector, which gained 6,370 jobs (Figure 17). Other substantial job gains occurred within the professional and technical services; accommodations and food services; administrative support services; finance and insurance and educational services sectors. There were also some significant employment decreases in the region, primarily in the transportation and warehousing; information; construction; public administration; and arts and entertainment industry sectors. Overall, the region lost 1,289 jobs between 2008 and 2013.

Regional industry projections (Figure 18) indicate large employment gains in the finance and insurance; health care and social assistance; retail trade; administrative and support services; construction; and educational services industry sectors. Percentage increases should also be noted. For instance, the professional, scientific and technical services industry shows a 22.0 percent projected increase in employment from 2012 to 2022.

Data based on IWD Region Eleven which includes: Boone, Dallas, Jasper, Madison, Marion, Polk, Story and Warren counties.

LABOR FORCE

Dallas County's labor force (those employed or actively seeking employment) grew by 16.3 percent between 2008 and 2013 (Figure 20). By percentage growth, this is much higher than any of the counties in the region, the State of Iowa and the United States. The labor force decreased in all of the other counties in the region, with the exception of Dallas, Story, Polk and Warren counties. Overall, the region experienced a 2.2 percent growth in labor force between 2008 and 2013.

Source: Bureau of Labor Statistics, LAUS

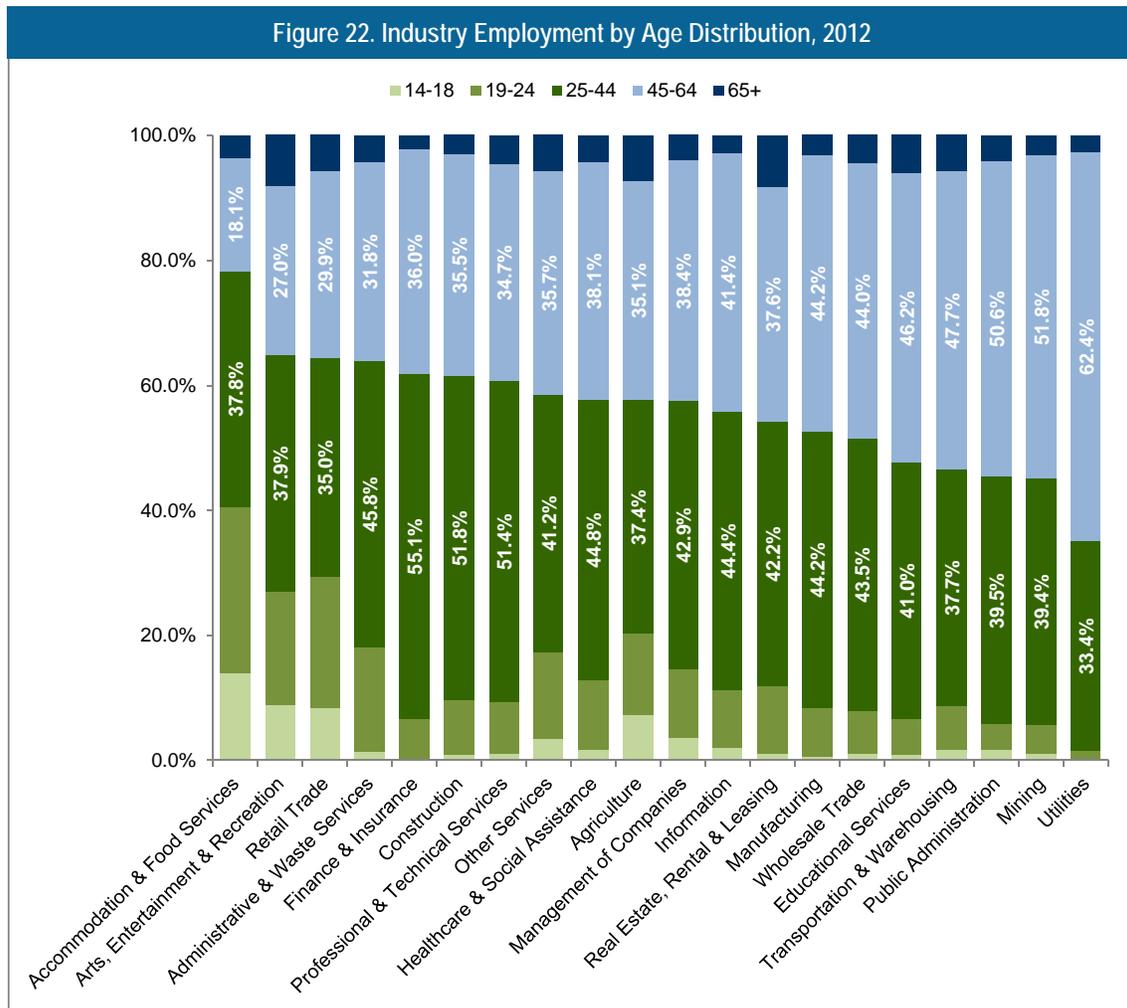

From 2002 to 2012, the number of the region's jobholders age 24 and younger dropped from 67,989 to 61,367 (a decrease of 6,622 younger workers). At the other end of the spectrum, workers age 55 and older increased. There were 52,302 workers over the age of 55 in 2002 and 81,064 in 2012, an increase of 55.0 percent (Figure 21).

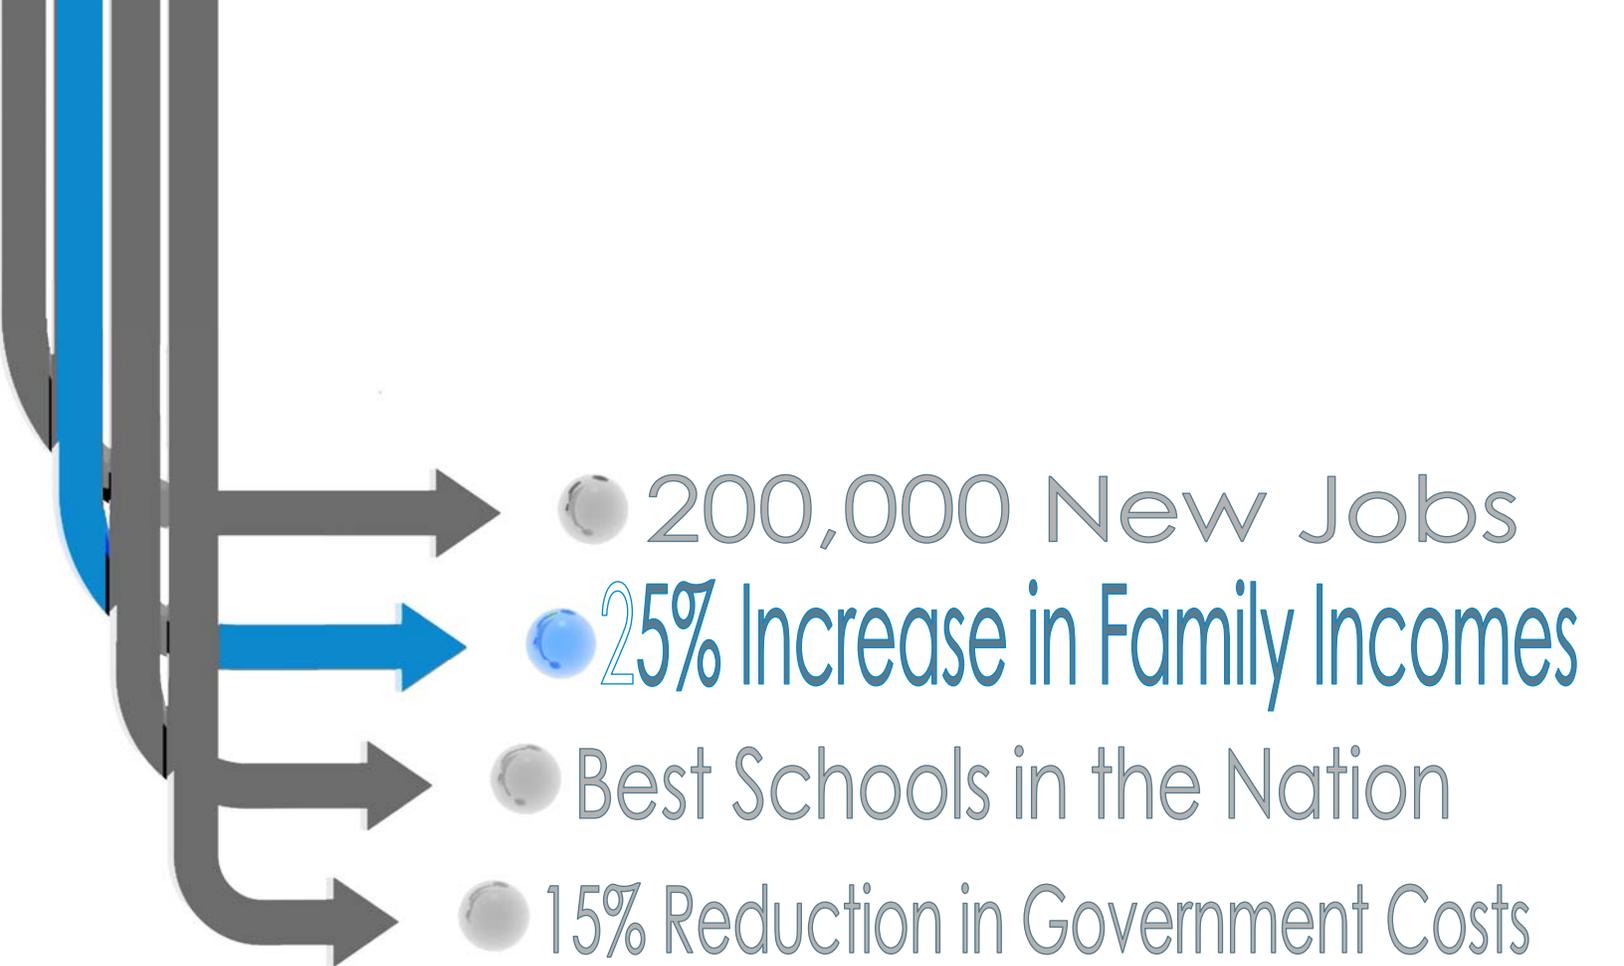

Figure 22 illustrates the industries within the region that will be most adversely affected due to an aging workforce, with blue colors representing those 45 and older. Percentages are annotated in the figure for the 25-44 and 45-64 age groups, representing the majority of workers.

Within this region, the utilities; mining; public administration; transportation and warehousing; and educational services industries each have 50.0 percent or greater of their workers aged 45 years or older. These encompass a wide variety of occupations that will each be affected by retirements within the next 20 years. In addition, the real estate industry sector contains the highest proportion of workers over 65 years of age (8.2%).

25% INCREASE IN FAMILY INCOMES

Another goal of this administration is to increase family incomes by 25 percent. This section will address current household income in Iowa as well as examine income distribution within the region. Thereafter, business climate and quality of life, including labor costs, property taxes and housing figures will be discussed.

INCOME

Iowa's 2012 median household income was $50,997 which is lower than eight of the nine counties in this region. Dallas County experienced very strong median household income growth since 2002 (34.6%), resulting in a 2012 median household income of $73,052. Poweshiek County also experienced significant growth in household income during this period (28.8%), however, their 2012 median household income ($50,883) was still less than the State as a whole (Figure 24).

BEST SCHOOLS IN THE NATION SUMMARY

- Marshall County had the lowest percentage of proficient reading students in the region at both the fourth and eighth grade levels.
- Madison County had the highest graduation rate for 2013 among the counties in the region at 96.9%. All of the counties (with the exception of Polk and Marshall counties) had a higher graduation rate than the State of Iowa (89.7%).
- K-12 enrollment in the region is projected to increase by 4.6 percent between 2014 and 2019.
- Story County had the highest average ACT composite score within the region at 24.4 which was also higher than both the State (22.1) and the nation (20.9) in 2013.
- Four of the nine counties in the region exceeded Iowa's percentage (25.3%) of those that have an undergraduate degree or higher.
- Within the region, Madison, Dallas and Warren counties experienced the greatest increase in the percentage of population 25 years or older with an undergraduate degree or higher between 2011 and 2012.
- Polk County had the greatest number of NCRC holders in the region at 4,526 (April 2009-May 2014).

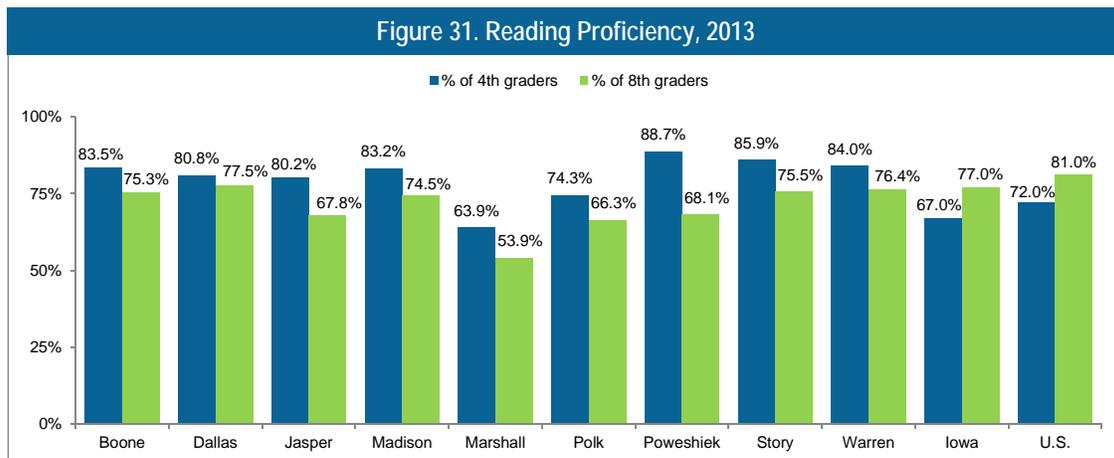

BEST SCHOOLS IN THE NATION

A continuing goal of this administration is to establish Iowa as a national leader in quality of education. This section includes indicators of the region's rankings compared to the State of Iowa and nation as a whole regarding education.

K-12 PROGRAMS

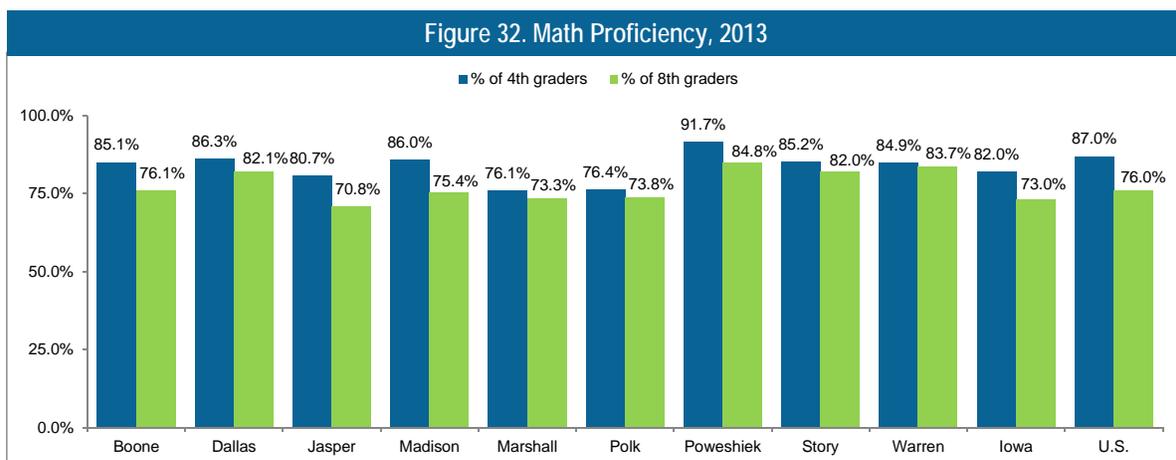

Figures 31 and 32 illustrate the proficiency in both reading and mathematics for students in the region, the State and the nation, with measurements taken in fourth and eighth grades in 2013.

The percentage of students proficient in reading in this region ranges from 88.7 percent of fourth graders in Poweshiek County to 53.9 percent of eighth graders in Marshall County. Marshall County had the lowest percentage of proficient reading students in the region for both grade levels. Each county in the region experienced a drop in the proportion of proficient reading students from fourth to eighth grade. This is the opposite of both the State and the nation which experienced a percentage increase in proficient students from fourth to eighth grade (Figure 31).

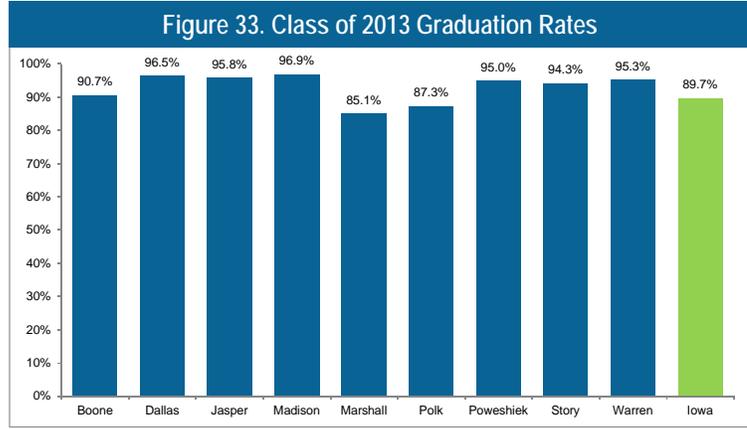

Source: Iowa Department of Education & National Center for Education Statistics

In general, there was less variance in math proficiency between grade levels than there was in reading proficiency. Within the region, Poweshiek County had the highest percentage of proficient math students in the region for both grade levels; however, like every other county in the region as well as the State and nation as a whole, Poweshiek County also experienced a decrease in the proportion of proficient math students from fourth to eighth grade (Figure 32).

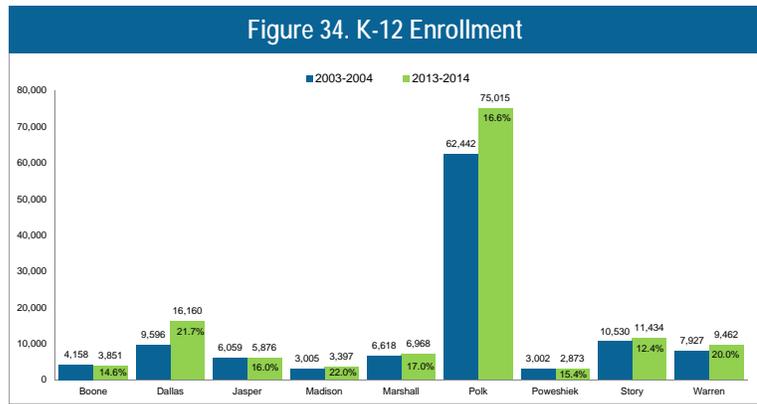

Source: Iowa Department of Education & National Center for Education Statistics

The K-12 education systems in the region generally have a very high success rate when it comes to preparing their students for graduation. Figure 33 shows the class of 2013 high school graduation rate for each of the counties in the region, as well as the State. Seven of the nine counties in the region surpass the statewide rate of 89.7 percent, with Madison County having the highest graduation rate in the region at 96.9 percent.

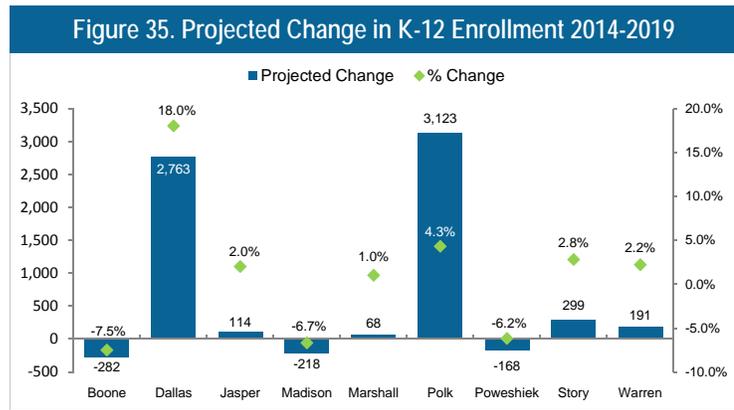

Source: Iowa Department of Education

Figure 34 illustrates K-12 enrollment levels for the counties in the region. The percentages in the bars express the counties' enrollment as a percentage of their total population. Polk County had the highest enrollment in the region, with 75,015 students enrolled in the 2013-14 academic year. Poweshiek County had the lowest enrollment, with 2,873 students. Madison County had the smallest population in the region; however, as a percentage of total population, their enrollment for 2013-14 was the highest when compared to the rest of the region. Overall, K-12 enrollment increased by 19.1 percent in the region between the 2004 and 2014 school years, compared to a 15.5 percent increase in total population.

Source: Iowa Department of Education

Looking toward the future, Figure 35 shows the projected change in K-12 enrollment throughout the region. For this purpose, the certified enrollment of the 2013-14 school year is compared to the projected enrollment for the 2018-19 school year, as estimated by the Iowa Department of Education. Six of the nine counties in the region are projected to have increases in K-12 enrollment. Polk County is expected to see the greatest total increase in enrollment during this time period with a projected change of 4.3 percent (representing an estimated 3,123 students). Dallas County is projected to experience the greatest percentage increase in enrollment at 18.0 percent (an estimated total gain of 2,763 students). Overall, enrollment in the region is projected to increase by 4.6 percent between 2014 and 2019.

Source: Iowa Department of Education

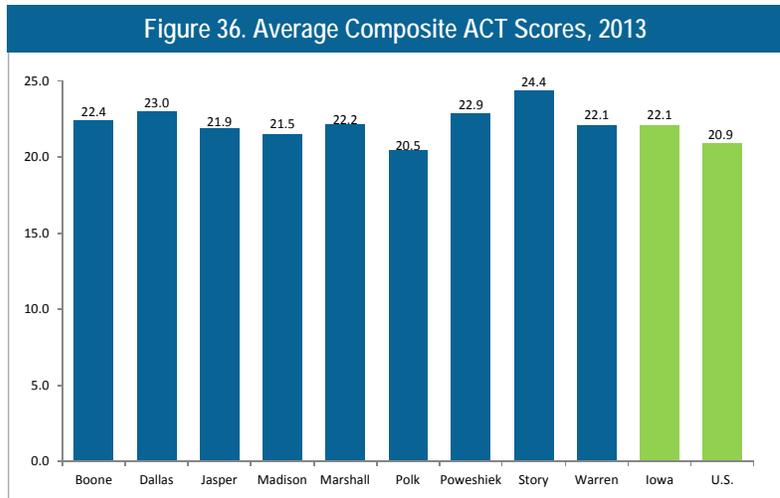

Figure 36 illustrates average composite ACT scores for the region, Iowa and the nation. ACT composite scores range from one to 36. These scores are a combination of four subject areas; English, mathematics, reading and science. In 2013, five of the nine counties in the region had a higher average composite score than both the State (22.1) and national (20.9) average. Polk County, however, had a lower average score than the nation with an average score of 20.5.

EDUCATIONAL ATTAINMENT

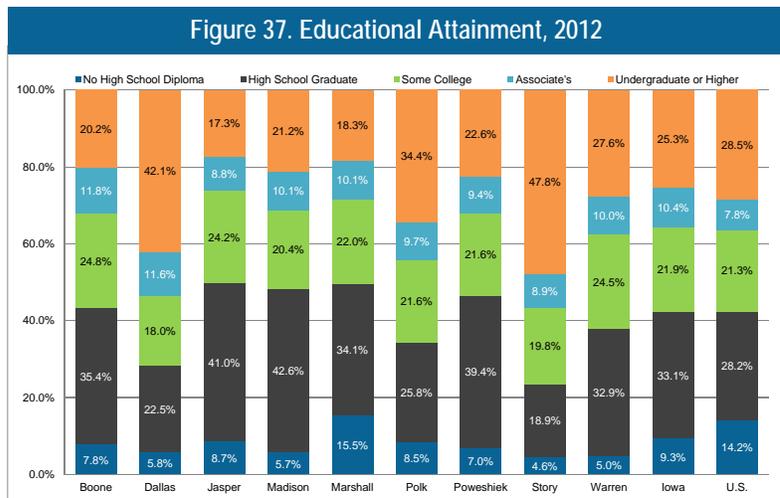

Figure 37 represents the educational attainment for the counties in the region of those over 25 years of age. Four of the counties in the region exceeded Iowa's percentage (25.3%) of those that have an undergraduate degree or higher. Story County had the highest percentage of population 25 years of age of older with an undergraduate degree or higher at 47.8 percent. Marshall County had the highest percentage those 25 years of age and older that have not earned a high school diploma, GED or HiSET at 15.5 percent.

When analyzing the population of those 25 years and older with an undergraduate degree or higher, Madison (1.1%), Dallas (1.0%) Warren (1.0%), and Polk (0.5%) counties lead the region in growth rates, from 2011 to 2012; an estimated increase of 135, 1,153, 369 and 2,809 individuals, respectively (Figure 38). These percentage increases outpace both the State and the nation.

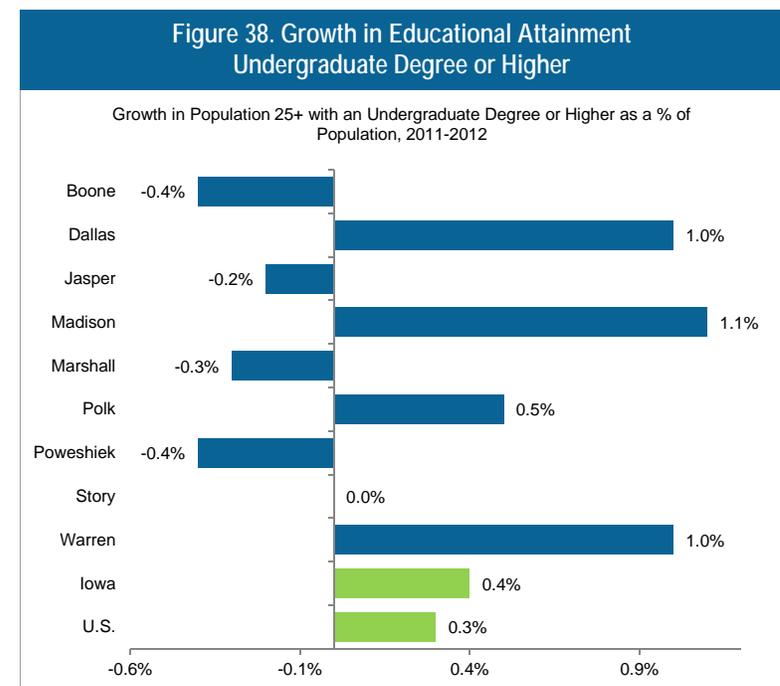

During the same time period Boone (-0.4%), Poweshiek (-0.4%), Marshall (-0.3%) and Jasper (-0.2%) counties all experienced percentage decreases, while Story County experienced no significant change. Overall, the region saw an estimated gain of 4,506 individuals aged 25 years or older with an undergraduate degree or higher.

SKILLED IOWA AND THE NATIONAL CAREER READINESS CERTIFICATE

The Skilled Iowa Initiative is a program that endeavors to provide assurances to employers that their local workforce has the necessary skills to fill job openings. The initiative promotes National Career Readiness Certificate (NCRC) testing to potential job seekers. The NCRC is a portable, nationally recognized credential that offers employers a measure of potential employees' foundational skills. Candidates that take the NCRC assessment are tested in three areas: applied mathematics, locating information and reading for information. Based on their scores the test taker could earn a certificate in one of four levels: platinum, gold, silver or bronze.

Source: ACT RegiSTAR

In Iowa, between April 2009 and May 2014, NCRCs were earned by over 41,500 people. Figure 39, above, shows the distribution of NCRC holders based on their county of residence at the time they took the test as a proportion of the total population (between ages 15-64). Within this region, 7,064 people earned an NCRC during this time period with Polk County having the greatest number of certificate holders at 4,526. Jasper (740), Marshall (738), Story (297), Warren (219), Poweshiek (184), Dallas (183), Madison (119) and Boone (58) counties all had substantially fewer certificate holders.

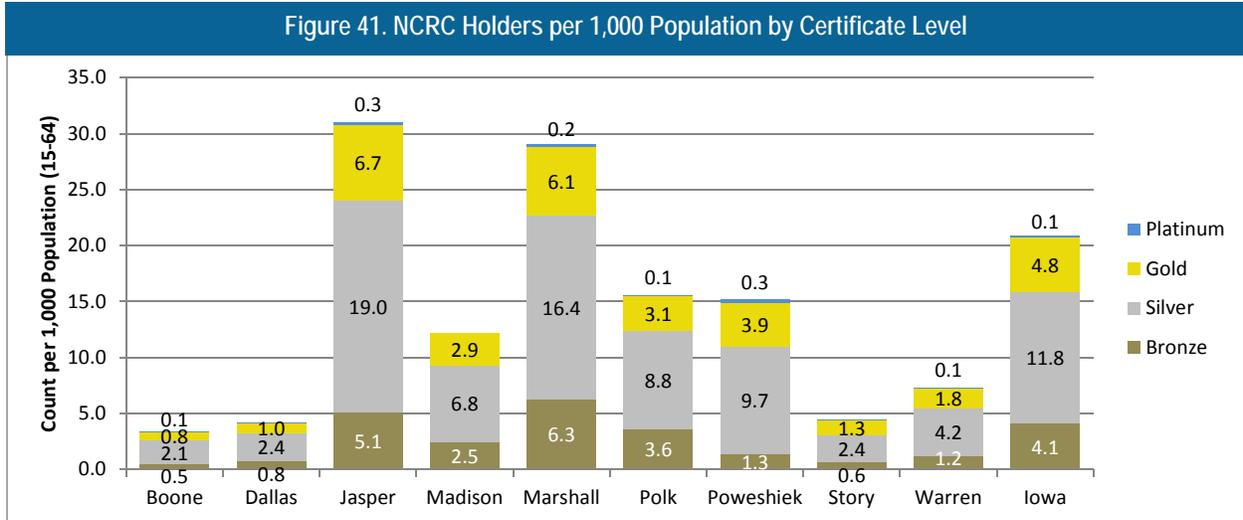

A majority of those who earned an NCRC, earned one at the silver level (Figure 40). The distribution of certificate levels throughout this region is fairly uniform. Story County had the greatest proportion of gold level certificate earners at 29.6 percent. Poweshiek County had the smallest percentage of bronze level certificate holders at 8.7 percent.

Figure 41, below, reflects the number of NCRC holders per 1,000 residents (ages 15 to 64) by certificate level earned for each county in the region along with the State as a whole. Jasper County had the greatest proportion of residents that had earned the credential at 31.1 per 1,000 population. Marshall County had the next highest in the region at 29. Every other county in the region had 15.6 or fewer certificate holders per 1,000 residents.

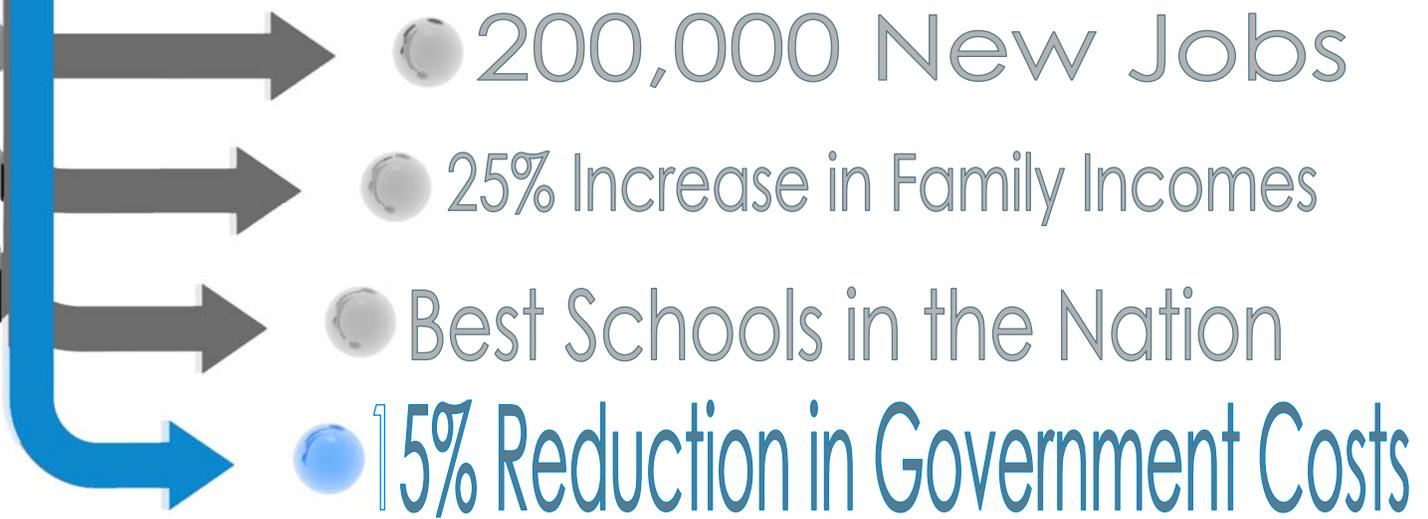

Source: ACT RegiSTAR

Figure 42, below, breaks down by age group the percentage of NCRC holders for each county in the region as well as for the State as a whole. Polk County, which had the greatest number of NCRC holders in the region (4,526), had over half (51.3%) of its certificate earners within either the 20 to 29 or 30 to 39 age brackets. Story County had a significant portion of its earners age 19 and under, at 45.6 percent. This was the greatest percentage, in this age group, for any county in the region and was also greater than the State as well.

15% REDUCTION IN GOVERNMENT COSTS SUMMARY

- In 2012, there were 132 state government full-time employees to every 10,000 residents in the State of Iowa.
- Boone County had the highest proportion of its workforce employed by the State in the region (7.4%).
- From fiscal years 2003 to 2013 there was a 15.2 percent increase in the number of full-time state government employees in Iowa.
- Overall, expenses for governmental activities in Iowa decreased by 0.5 percent in fiscal year 2013.

15% REDUCTION IN GOVERNMENT COSTS

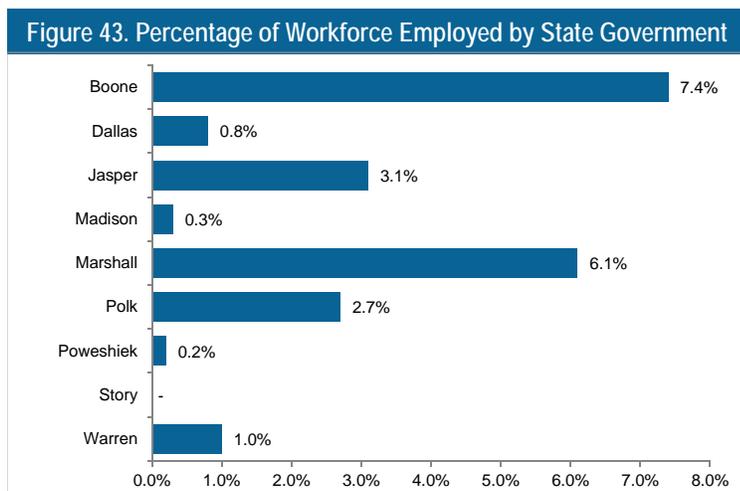

Lastly, another major objective of this administration is to reduce the cost of government by 15 percent. This will include the use of new technologies and efficiencies allowing governmental savings.

STATE GOVERNMENT EMPLOYMENT

According to the Census Bureau's Annual Survey of Public Employment and Payroll, in 2012, there were approximately 132 full-time state government employees per 10,000 residents in Iowa. During fiscal year 2013, nearly three-fifths (59.0%) of Iowa's full-time state employees were employed within Iowa's Board of Regents. The remaining 41.0 percent were non-Regent employees. Of these, the majority were employed within the human services, corrections or transportation departments. From fiscal years 2003 to 2013 there has been a 15.2 percent increase in the total number of full-time State employees.

Figure 43 illustrates the percentage of the workforce employed by State government for each county in the region in 2013. Boone County had the highest proportion of its workforce employed by the State (7.4%), followed by Marshall County (6.1%). Within the region, Poweshiek County had the lowest proportion of its workforce employed by the State with only 0.2 percent.

In regards to total full-time employee positions, the Board of Regents' personnel costs comprise nearly three-fifths (57.4%) of the total for State government. The total personnel cost of the Board of Regents has increased from $1.52 billion in fiscal year 2003 to $2.52 billion in fiscal year 2013, an average annual increase of 5.3 percent. The total cost of the non-Regents agencies has increased from $1.28 billion in fiscal year 2003 to $1.87 billion in fiscal year 2013, representing an average annual increase of 4.0 percent (Figure 44).

STATE GOVERNMENT ACTIVITIES

Iowa's government-wide financial statements are designed to provide a broad overview of the State's financial activity. The government-wide financial statements of the State are divided into three categories: governmental activities, business-type activities and component units. This section focuses on governmental activities which center on services generally associated with State government, such as: administration and regulation; education; health and human rights; human services; justice and public defense; economic development; transportation; and agriculture and natural resources.

First, Figure 45, to the right, breaks down Iowa's revenue sources as delineated by Iowa Department of Administrative Service's Comprehensive Annual Financial Report, for fiscal year 2013. Over half (53.0%) of the State's revenue came from taxes. This is a percentage increase of 2.0 over fiscal year 2012. This can be attributed, in part, to a 13.4 percent increase in personal income tax revenue and a 2.3 percent increase in sales and use tax revenue during this time period.

Source: Iowa Department of Administrative Services, State Accounting Enterprise

Figure 46, above, shows the State of Iowa's expenses by function. The human services (40.0%) and education (26.0%) functions account for the majority of expenses in 2013. The overall percentage breakout of expenses for 2013 mirrors the 2012 breakout.

The cost of all governmental activities for fiscal year 2013 was $13.64 billion. This is a decrease of $72,400 dollars over fiscal year 2012. Overall, expenses for governmental activities decreased by 0.5 percent in 2013.

Figure 47 depicts the change in total program expenses between fiscal year 2012 and 2013. Expenses decreased most significantly in economic development (26.7%) and transportation (4.7%). The decrease in economic development expenses of $68.0 million is partially a result of a $48.4 million reduction in state aid for economic development related projects and a $17.3 million reduction of American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) related expenses for workforce development. In addition, the decrease in transportation expenses of $57.0 million was largely due to the reduction in spending of federal highway planning and construction funds.
